Throughout March, May, and June, months which tend to see concentrations of general meetings of shareholders held by companies, Sumitomo Mitsui Trust Bank takes steps to secure the time needed for aggregating votes by coordinating with the post office to receive voting cards prior to normal delivery date. In 2020, these advanced delivery provisions were also undertaken in July, as general meetings of shareholders were concentrated in this month as well due to the impacts of the global COVID-19 pandemic.

However, Fuji Electric's 144th Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders took place in August 2020, during which these advanced delivery provisions were not taken as this month was not designated as a high-concentration period. As a result, the aggregation of votes for this meeting was conducted appropriately.
